

To the FCC:

I'm a devoted Christian and I believe in God. I also believe that this new set of regulations should not be placed on Christian radio stations. I don't know of any Christian that would like to hear the atheist side of any discussion that is aired on a Christian radio station. As a Christian I believe in the word of God and I believe in listening to a Christian radio station that does not contain any bad language, adverse opinions about God, and is not controlled by some other agency. I don't go around forcing my opinions on people who don't believe in God. So I don't believe the FCC should go around forcing Christian radio stations to give atheist opinions on the air. If I want to know what an atheist thinks I will go talk to one. But I shouldn't be forced to listen to atheist opinions on a Christian radio station.

Christina Mosley